

Diversity and Inclusion

We believe the more we encourage a thriving environment that engages and listens to a variety of perspectives we improve the way we connect and communicate to the outside world. Diversity typically includes, but is not limited to, differences in race, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, political and religious affiliation, socioeconomic background, cultural background, geographic location, physical disabilities and abilities, relationship status, veteran status, and age. We see inclusion as the ongoing, conscious effort that embraces individuals from differing backgrounds and life experiences.

We're thrilled to continue working and partnering with other companies and institutions that share our values.

Intellectual and international diversity is something that we strongly embody at Plush Communiqué— while we believe in continuing to deliver quality through our virtual environment, we are proud of our colleagues across the world and we recognize that we have so much more work to do in embracing the many differences that our community represents. We hope you consider joining us on our journey toward ever-increasing diversity and inclusion.
